Gustine Girl Sets College Record

(From Lamar College)
According to Dean D. W. Rottmott of Lamar College, Beaumont, Texas, Miss Louise McKimney of Gustine has a scholastic record unequalled by an other freshman in that school. At the close of the first semester, January 31, she had an A in every subject.

Miss McKimney is majoring in mathematics and is taking the course of study recommended by Texas University for those students who intend to study mathematics at the University after finishing two years at Lamar. Her course includes engineer's math, chemistry, English, public speaking, psychology and physical education.

She is a member and an officer of the Phi Rho Pi debating club and took an active part in the intercollegiate debates until she had to drop out of school for an appendectomy. After having to miss school for three weeks she withdrew from the intercollegiate debate team, but remained a member of the honorary organization.

Miss McKimney is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McKimney of Gustine, and an honor graduate of Gustine High School. At the present time she is living with her sister, Mrs. Noel T. DuBose, of Beaumont.

(Address of Jim Eanes Reese before Comanche Lions Club)

Regardless of the fate of the Roosevelt "New Deal" or the scheme finally adopted as a Federal Farm Program, Comanche County has within its boundaries natural resources whereby her people can inaugurate a "New Deal" all of their own. A new deal not based on economic theories or dependent upon party politics, but a program based on work and utilization of our natural advantages.

Comanche County has for years been noted for its fine fruit, pecans and truck. We have been told, and it is generally accepted, that diversified farming should be more generally practiced, and much fine work has been done along that line in the county. Some have gone so far as to say that the production of fruit and truck should be the main objective of the north half of the county, and this contention is worthy of the serious consideration of our farmers and business men.

The day has passed when cotton could be depended upon to furnish the money to maintain the community. This is true not only because the soil has been depleted and the presence of the boll weevil, but because of the restriction of production now practiced and to be practiced. Whether or not restriction is wise makes no difference; with the AAA or some similar program the amount to be produced in this county is and will be definitely limited.

The major portion of the county is not adapted to production of grain on any large scale. Where then is the farmer to turn except to the production of fruit, watermelons, peanuts, pecans and truck? The production of these commodities offers this county a way out of our agricultural depression. A way out by our own efforts; a way out that will enable us to be independent of aid and help from (Continued On Last Page)

Drivers' Licenses Must Be Secured; Auto Plates Here

New 1936 license plates for motor vehicles are being issued each day at the office of Tax Assessor-Collector E. R. Armstrong. The licenses are not necessary until April 1, hence the delay on the part of car owners in securing them.

Along with the car license this year the applicant must obtain a driver's license in order to operate an automobile lawfully. To secure a license applicant must be at least 14 years of age and in the opinion of the tax collector able to operate an automobile safely. These licenses are not transferable and each member of the family who drives a car must have one.

The blank forms for driver's license are divided into three parts. On the top is the applicant's name, etc. The other two sections have on them "first offense" on the bottom section, and "second offense" on the middle section. At the first offense the bottom of the blank will be torn off and at the second violation the center section will be removed. At the third offense the license will be taken up and revoked. Full details as to the procedure in securing another license have not been received, but notice will be given as soon as this information is available.

The licenses do not cost anything at the time of issuance, but in the event they are lost, notice must be given the state highway department, Austin, and a fee of 25 cents will be charged for a duplicate.

If you are going to have a judiciary system in which the judges are forbidden to say what is the law and what is not the law, why have a Supreme Court? —L. B. Russell.

2 Counterfeiters Arrested With 30 Fifty-Cent Pieces

Two Comanche County men with 30 counterfeit fifty-cent pieces in their possession were arrested by Brownwood police about 10 o'clock Friday night and held in the Brownwood city jail.

The men gave their names as O. B. McDonald and Emery Sliger. They were arrested after police received a report that two men had passed a counterfeit half-dollar at the Mahone Service Station on Highway 10, east of Brownwood.

The coins taken from the men show skilled work and are good reproductions, police said. McDonald and Sliger were brought to Comanche where they were held for Federal authorities by Sheriff John Reese.

According to Reese a mould for making the money was recovered at McDonald's residence near Hasse, and a statement is said to have been made by one of the men. About 30 or 40 half-dollars were recovered. Reese said and the remainder of about 100 were thrown away, the statement said.

Only one run of money had been made, it was claimed.

The mould was made, Reese said, by taking a new half dollar that had never been circulated and placing it in the bottom of a small box on glass and pouring plaster of paris over it and allowing to cool.

If you can qualify neither for a Veteran's Bonus Bond nor an old person's pension, maybe you can at least help pay the bill.

"What most people demand of our Legislature," said an ex-member, who recently visited Comanche, "is more appropriations and less taxes."

"Although I have lived in Comanche only a short while, I can see that it is making progress," says Sammy Waisman of the Waisman Department Store. "One thing Comanche needs is more light on the square at night. Four powerful lights at each of the corners of the square would be a great improvement."

"The grain crop is looking bad," said J. W. Dabney of the Blanket community who was in Comanche last week to renew his subscription to The Chief. The many cold spells and freezes have dried all the moisture out of the top soil, and a rain is needed badly he said.

The Business and Professional Women's Club is planning to do something for the famous old live oak tree near the southwest corner of the square during the Centennial year, Miss Iva Hart, president of the club says. "We may put some kind of curb around it and erect a marble slab with a suitable inscription," she continued.

Fifty-one new subscribers were placed on the Comanche Chief's mailing list this week. Some had been subscribers before and found that they could not do without the county paper. We believe this long list of new subscribers coming just after the close of a campaign shows that the people really appreciate the Chief.

Three Comanche boys who were chums in Comanche High School about 20 years ago now have good positions with the Federal Government. Jack Cauley who got his first experience as a local postal clerk, is now a U. S. Postal Inspector with headquarters at Lansing, Michigan. Dwight Brightman, ex-sheriff of this county, is an employee of the Department of Justice and is home agent with headquarters at Knoxville, Tennessee. Tom F. Reese, former County and District Attorney, is now an attorney for the Treasury Department with headquarters at Dallas.

"The completion of Highway No. 36 East and West through Comanche is one of our greatest road needs," says City Secretary Hill Huddleston. The Commissioners Court recently authorized the funds to purchase caliche for the first six miles out of Comanche east to Creamer. The State Highway Department has designated this as the first sector to be built out of Comanche, following the old Cotton Belt right-of-way. John C. Platt of San Benito, for many years a leading citizen of Sipe Springs, was in Comanche recently and renewed his subscription to the Chief. "The Chief is getting better all the time," said Mr. Platt, "but I want more Sipe Springs news." Miss Emma Hartford, for a number of years sent in the Sipe Springs news and was one of the Chief's best correspondents, but since she has moved to Comanche no one has taken her place. We will furnish a free subscription and stationery to anyone who will send in the Sipe Springs news.

Keep a Good Laxative always in your home

Among the necessities of home is a good, reliable laxative. Don't be without one! Do your best to prevent constipation. Don't neglect it when you feel any of its disagreeable symptoms coming on. "We have used Thedford's Black-Draught for 21 years and have found it a very useful medicine that every family ought to have in their home," writes Mrs. Perry Hicks of Belton, Texas. "I take Black-Draught for biliousness, constipation and other ills where a good laxative or purge is needed. I have always found Black-Draught gives good results. Sold in 25-cent packages."

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes, feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay! Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

SYNOPSIS

Captain Michael Andrews, of a British armored car division on the Eastern Front, is captured by Kurdish irregulars but rescued when the supposed leader of the Kurds turns out to be a mysterious British secret service agent who calls himself Smith. While steering the Balkan, an Armenian tribe, against which the Kurds are advancing, to a place of safety across the mountains, Andrews sees Smith kill Cullen, an enemy spy, and breaks his leg when he attempts to stop him. He is sent to a British hospital in Cairo, where, as his leg heals, he falls in love with Rosemary, his nurse. Rosemary reciprocates his affection but reveals that she married a man at the outbreak of the war who joined the secret service and vanished. Her husband, John Stevenson, who is the mysterious "Smith," suddenly reappears to go away with him for six months.

CHAPTER VI

Recovering slowly from her shock, Rosemary decided that, come what might, she would tell Stevenson of her love for Andrews. But when her husband returned home that night she had to brace herself to meet him.

"I'm not going to kiss you!" he laughed boyishly. "That's odd, isn't it?"

"There's... I've got to say... I..." she began wildly.

"You see," he continued gaily, "I can't kiss you before the ceremony."

"Please, John, I want to talk to you."

"Not before the ceremony." He pressed her gently into a chair and took a jewel case from his pocket. "Now, this is the ceremony!" He lifted a rope of pearls and two diamond bracelets from the case. He slipped the pearls over her neck.

Then, kneeling, he placed the bracelets on her wrists.

"They shine... your honor and your faith," he cried, gazing at her with a look of exaltation. "They are fetters! For the only woman in the world who has never needed them." He dropped his head upon her lap, putting his arms about her. Then, after a pause, while Rosemary continued staring straight ahead, he looked up at her thoughtfully.

"I don't think this place is good for you," he said tenderly. "Where shall we go, dearest? Remember, we've got five months before anything can happen to part us... one hundred and fifty days together."

As she started to protest, he put his arms about her, drew her to him and began to cover her neck with kisses. For a moment she drew back, then with a shake of her head, she allowed him to caress her.

Meantime, in general headquarters, Andrews had been notified that he was needed at the front immediately to handle an armored car unit in the African Sudan. There was no chance to argue about it. He had to entrain that night.

Before he departed, however, he went once more to the hospital. By this time Nurse Rowlands had accumulated more information for him. She announced that Rosemary was living with her husband, and, although she would not reveal their address, promised to carry a message from Andrews.

As a result the lovers met for the last time in the writing room of a Cairo hotel that night.

"So you did come," he said coldly when the girl advanced toward him across the balcony. "Why didn't you come before?"

"I... I couldn't," she answered softly. "I tried... You don't know how difficult it is! You see..."

"The ordinary, common garden

John isn't... isn't like other people. He's his own law. And nothing can alter him. If he knew there was another man, he'd kill you. Oh, it's not myself I'm afraid for... I..."

They were interrupted by the voice of Foster, Andrews' orderly. "Captain Andrews," said the young fellow, hurrying up, "you've only three minutes to catch the train. The car is waiting..."

As the orderly turned and retreated discreetly, Andrews swept the girl into his arms and kissed her.

"Darling, I've got to go," he choked. "But it won't be for long." With an effort he released her, then turned abruptly on his heel and departed.

When he was gone, Rosemary turned to leave the garden, hopeless tears forcing themselves to her eyes. Half-blinded she stumbled through the gateway and out into the crowded street.

"What can we do?" she kept moaning brokenly. "Oh, Michael, Michael! He'd kill you. What can we do?"

Completely wrapped up in her grief and blinded by her tears she stepped at that moment directly into the path of an army truck. There was a great screaming of brakes, a shout from the horrified driver. Then one of the fenders struck her and hurled her to the sidewalk, where she lay unconscious.

They rushed her to the hospital, but there the doctors shook their heads hopelessly.

"Her back's broken. Absolutely no chance," one of the physicians told the frantic Stevenson, who sat at the bedside.

Some accident in that voice must have stirred the consciousness of the dying girl.

Her eyes fluttered open. They rested upon Stevenson but they were wide and unseeing. Her lips moved, and, in a strange but clear mumbled, formed one word:

"Michael," she cried. Then, with a sudden convulsive movement her eyes closed and life went out of poor Rosemary.

Stevenson stared down at her in horror, torn to his very soul by that one word. After a moment he was aware that the doctor had placed one kindly hand on his shoulder. He started, then, without a word or a backward glance, stalked from the room.

"John isn't like other people," she said. "If he knew there was another man, he'd kill you."

variety of liar is a contemptible thing," he lashed at her.

"I had to lie tonight... to see you," Her voice trembled.

"I mean something much more! You're living a lie with that man. Unless... unless... you told another lie... to me. Did you?"

He caught her by the arms, pulled her toward him and shook her in desperation. She broke away and ran from the balcony into the garden. Horrified at what he had done, he ran after her.

He found the girl half-lying on a bench, sobbing brokenly.

"Don't! Please don't," he pleaded, dropping to his knees near her.

"You don't understand, Michael," she answered, fighting for composure. "But I've got to make you understand. He's... he's so... it would be vile cruelty to tell him now! I've tried! I can't do it... And there's another reason, too!"

Meantime, in general headquarters, Andrews had been notified that

FORMER COMANCHE LADY CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

(By Omata Dunlap)

On February 2, at Throckmorton, Mrs. G. H. Dunlap's children and grandchildren gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Dunlap to celebrate her seventieth birthday. Many valuable and practical gifts came pouring in, and were placed upon her lap. Needless to mention the pleasure and joy of the givers brought about through the smiles and appreciation, that came from the one who was being so highly honored.

After all the relatives had spent a short time visiting they were invited to one of the most wonderful dinners that this winter has seen in many moons. A special place had been reserved for the honoree, and a gorgeous birthday cake, lighted with candles, was placed near her plate.

Thanks were then offered and after Mrs. Dunlap blew out the candles, the best feast was on. After dinner the photographs assembled the crowd in the yard and pictures were made of all. The four generations were: Mrs. G. H. Dunlap, Throckmorton; Mrs. G. E. Evans, Comanche; C. I. Evans and son, Doyle, Gustine.

Those who attended were Mrs. G. H. Dunlap of Throckmorton, Mrs. G. E. Evans of Comanche, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Dunlap and son, Dale, of Haskell, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. ## Beware The Cough

From a common cold

That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many remedies; such as, Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, fluid extract of Licorice Root, fluid extract of Wild Cherry and Menthol, but also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote is perfectly blended with all of these to reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of doctors use Creomulsion in their own families as well as in their practice knowing how Creomulsion aids nature to soothe the inflamed membranes and heal the irritated tissues as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion top for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible and potent for going to the very seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations and especially those stubborn ones that start with a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle.

Don't worry through another sleepless night—phone or go get a bottle of Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

B. F. Cadenhead For State Representative

I hereby offer my candidacy subject to the Democratic Primary for the 104th District Representative in the Legislature. Having served the 35th Legislature and did not ask for the second term, I now ask the voters of this 104th District to consider my candidacy to represent you in the Legislature.

It is commonly known that I am a supporter and co-worker of the Townsend O. A. R. P. Plan. I heartily endorse the transaction for the purpose set forth to retire the aged in comfort; to create circulation, to increase buying power, to solve the unemployment problem, to the extent that every man and woman may be able to earn an honest livelihood at a fair wage scale; Believing the transaction offered by the McCroarty Bill H. R. 7154, this "tax being a fair tax and not burdensome under this act." It shall be my pleasure to meet each citizen of this district, to present my claims and ask your consideration. Thanking you for your support and influence.

Yours truly,
B. F. CADENHEAD

Mrs. Martha Spruill Buried At Van Dyke

Mrs. Martha E. Spruill, a pioneer resident of the Comyn community died at the home of her son, Lee Spruill, near Van Dyke on Friday afternoon, Jan. 31.

Mrs. Spruill was seventy-seven years of age. On last August 28th, her children and grandchildren gathered as had been their custom for several years, to celebrate her seventy-seventh birthday.

For sometime Mrs. Spruill had been in failing health, but was not confined to her bed continuously until after the Christmas holidays. On the day of her death, and the day preceding it, she had taken her noon meal while sitting in her rocker near the fireplace. Her death came suddenly and unexpectedly about 3:30 in the afternoon while she was resting and taking her afternoon sleep.

The funeral service was held in the Comyn Baptist Church, and was conducted by Rev. Gilbert Dalton, a minister of the Primitive Baptist Church, of which Mrs. Spruill had been a member for some forty or more years.

The pallbearers were the grandsons of Mrs. Spruill. Mrs. Spruill is survived by three sons and one daughter. They are J. V. Spruill of Comyn, Roy Spruill of New Hope, Lee Spruill of Van Dyke, and Mrs. Abb Hodges of South Texas. Another son, Elmer, died a few years ago. Three step-children are living. They are Mrs. Idonia Hammond of Zephyr, T. A. Spruill of Dublin and B. Spruill of Dallas. She is also survived by one brother, "Uncle Bill" Spencer of De Leon.

A voice that rang true and strong for the right and good in life; a voice that was ever encouraging and sympathizing when needs called for these, is still heard. A face with a countenance so sweet and cheerful that it seemed almost to carry a smile, whether the day be blue or sunny, has gone from our earthly view; but in this loss there comes to us a rich inheritance in the memory of her, and the beautiful example of living she left for us as she passed on.—Contributed.

The crowning event of the evening was the negro sermon of Bro. Gardner of Coon Hollow Miss., in the person of J. I. Grisham, N. G. of the De Leon lodge. Those who missed this number, missed a treat worth having.

in history

They wagged William Jackson in a conference, one day. Any important business project To be gotten under way. "Call up and ask Bill Jackson. If he'll run this thing," they said. But William had no telephone. He might as well be dead.

NOTE: Bill was home at the time, with his feet on the dining room table, reading a detective story. He was blissfully unconscious of the fact that John was robbing him of a big opportunity.

GOOD WILL SERVICE AT METHODIST CHURCH

We often see the business men and civic organizations of our town visit one another. This is done in order to become better acquainted and promote the spirit of fellowship and good will between the communities.

Would this not be a good plan for the churches in our town? If our religious beliefs and church creeds permit us to acknowledge our friends in another church as Christians engaged in the same battle for righteousness as ourselves then should we not promote the spirit of fellowship and good will? And work together as men and women enlisted in a common cause?

In order to promote this spirit of fellowship and good will, that we may better understand one another, the Presbyterian and Methodist churches will have a good will service next Sunday evening at seven o'clock.

Many of our people have expressed a desire to hear Rev. Hazel preach and to hear Mrs. Hazel sing. You will have this privilege next Sunday evening at the Methodist Church. Let's be there and enjoy the service. At the same hour the Methodist pastor will speak in the Presbyterian Church.

Don't forget our Church School next Sunday morning at 9:45. Several were absent last Sunday due to illness and extreme cold weather. We missed you very much and are looking for you to be back with us next Sunday.

"Let us meet you in church next Sunday."

Chas. H. Cole, Minister.

"I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Fugate's Prescription. Last year this time I was home from work two weeks with bronchial asthma. I had had it for three years and each year it kept getting worse. I took your medicine and began feeling better right away. I took only one bottle and have not had a touch of asthma since."

THE WATTS FAMILY

Works for You

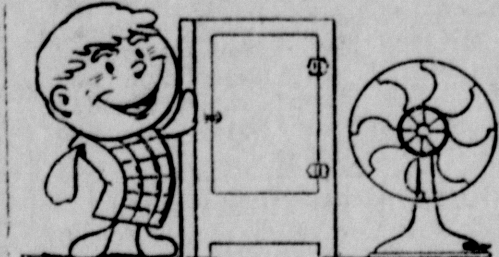

GLOWY WATTS. . . This gay chap takes care of lighting all through your house. One of his slogans is "Better Light for Better Sight." The radio is also one of his jobs. He might be said to be the arch enemy of Darkness and Gloom.

HOTSY WATTS. . . Where there is electrical heat, there is Hotsy. She irons, cooks, percolates coffee, bakes waffles, warms your feet with the heating pad, and curls your hair. She's a "hot" number when it comes to work, as housewives know.

TIDY WATTS. . . One look at this prim Miss and you just know she does the cleaning of rugs, draperies, and furniture with the electric cleaner. She washes clothes, washes dishes, and dries them, too. Then she has the constant task of keeping time by the electric clock.

COOLSY WATTS. . . His name tells a part of Cooly's story. He kicks up the cool breezes with the electric fan, and the new Attic Ventilator. He keeps the electric refrigerator cold, protects your food and your health. He operates the room coolers, and Air Conditioners.

DAY AND NIGHT

With
CHEAP
Electricity

SAVING your time . . . your energy . . . your money. Adding leisure hours to your days . . . convenience to your work . . . health to your family . . . joy to your living, by means of Cheap Electricity.

The Watts are at your command all the time. In many instances they work hours at a time without your directing them at all. For instance, Hotsy Watts cooks whole meals while you are away from home; Coolsy Watts refrigerates food constantly, even when you are miles away; Tidy Watts keeps accurate time day after day, month after month; and Glowys Watts brings a variety of radio programs while you listen, worry-free and relaxed.

Think of the hours you spend reading, sewing, playing games, or visiting while Glowys Watts supplies you with Better Light for Better Sight.

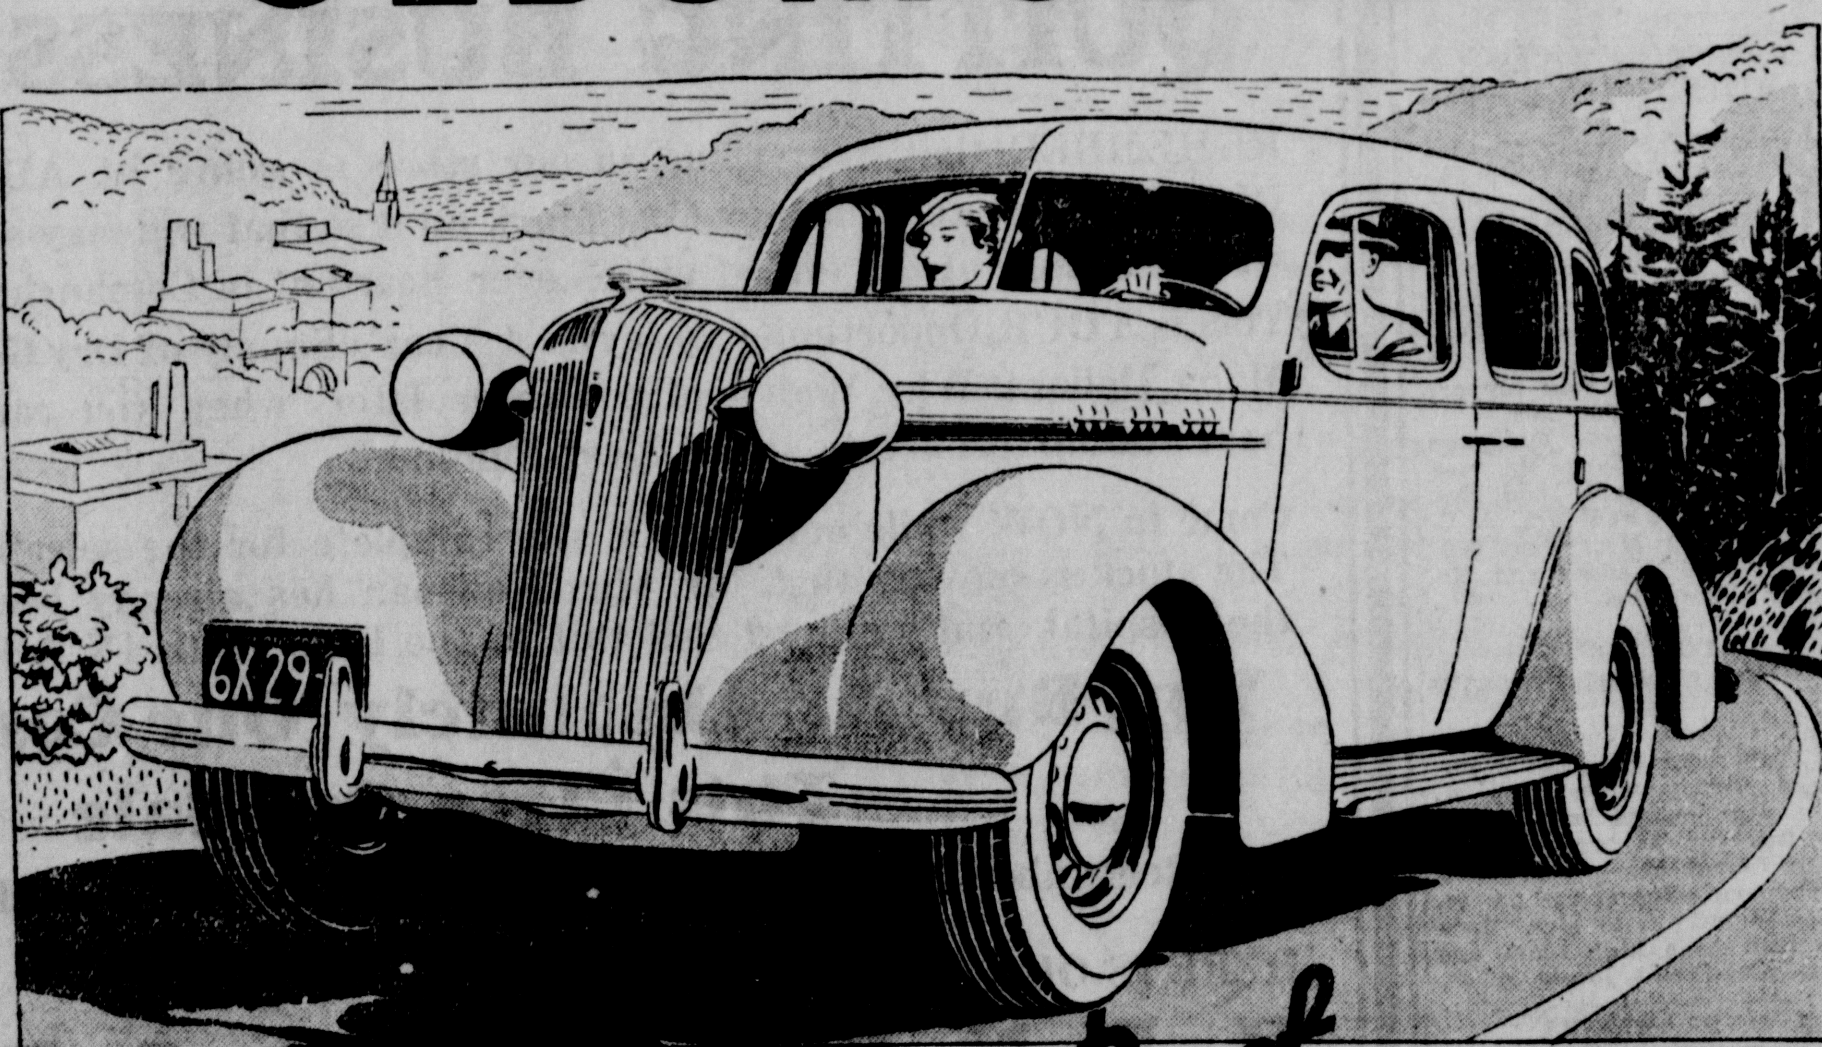

If you are not making full use of the Watts Family you are missing much of the joy of living. Give them a "Thirty-day Full-use Trial" in your home. Use them in every way. You will be amazed at the number of jobs they can do.

You will be pleased at the small cost. Demonstrate to yourself that the Watts Family is the most useful group of servants for you . . . and, that their wages are the lowest in history.

SHADRACH MESHACH AND ABEDNEGO

(Daniel, Chapter Three)

(By Jesse Tiner)

Nebuchadnezzar, King so grand Held the nations under his hand; He reigned and ruled with powerful sway, 'Twas woe for those who'd not obey; He served his God, his God was Baal, And all must serve him without fail; But there were three who would not own The God called Baal, they braved the throne And those three men the scriptures show Were Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego.

So Nebuchadnezzar, time did take An image of his God to make: It stood on Dura's plain so high, Extending up from earth to sky. 'Twas sixty cubits high, we're told, It's entire form was made of gold; The King decreed, did sternly vow That all men to his God must bow, But three would not they let him know, They were Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego.

A fiery furnace awful hot, The King erected on the spot; And those who from his God did turn, Within the furnace had to burn: The fire was waiting there for all Who'd not before the image fall; The King called out his strongest men, To bind such ones and cast them in; And there were three they in must throw, They were Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego.

The fire was heated in that hour To seven-fold its normal power; It's heat so great, did slay the men Who threw the Hebrew children in; Three were cast in, and not no more, The Angel of the Lord made four; The King then watching from afar, Saw four men walking in the fire, Three of the four the King did know Were Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego.

The King then did their faith admire, He called to them to leave the fire; And they came forth all sound and well, Their clothes, of fire'did have no smell, The King decreed that all should love The one true God in Heaven above; Jehovah, all should now adore, And love and serve Him evermore; The one true God he'd learned to know, By Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego.

The God who saved those Hebrew men, Has power today the same as then; He changes not, He stays the same, He still can save men from the flame; The reason why His Son He gave Was all because He wills to save; If we'll believe, and trust His grace, We shall behold His shining face; His power to save we too shall know, Like Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego.

How Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Bad Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tabs the first night and repeat the dose the second night if needed.

How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleaning the intestinal tract of the germ-laden mucus and toxins.

Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the system. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (Adv.)

NEW DEAL FOR FRUIT MEN

the Government or any one else. This is not to say that he should change our farming entirely, but it does mean that in the future our reliance should be on fruit trees, nut trees, berry pines and the production of truck, rather than on cotton and peanuts. We can still plant cotton and profit by doing so, but our prosperity will depend on our utilizing our natural advantages by producing these other products.

The natural advantages of our county are well known to all of us. Our sandy soils with clay subsoils, both carrying the essential mineral content, with ability to retain moisture, are an ideal combination for the production of anything from melons to nuts. Another point that outsiders tell us that our products, particularly our fruit, have an exceptional flavor or taste. This may be due to the mineral content of our soils, but whatever the cause, the fact remains that you can tell a Comanche County product by the taste.

The best evidence of the suitability of our soil for the production of these products is that all these commodities are being successfully and profitably produced throughout the north part of our county. Dozens of farmers throughout this section find that the berry patch, the orchard, the melon patch, the potato patch, yield per acre profits far in excess of any other crop grown. So we know it can be done, then why is it not done more widely?

There are two main difficulties to be overcome before the program can become widespread. The first is lack of capital or inability to finance the orchards and vineyards. These projects require money and production is two to three years in coming and is limited in the beginning. Some way must be devised whereby the farmer can finance his program if the county is to realize to the fullest on its natural advantages and resources.

A more important problem, however, is the need of a dependable market for "Comanche County Products." A market that will assure the farmers that their product will be taken at a fair price. When a market is assured the problem of financing will be comparatively easy. It is not difficult to find money to finance crops that are sure of a profitable return, and with a good market more and more attention would be paid to the expansion of production. The production of melons and other truck requires no great financial outlay, and here the market is the most vital point in the program. Once we are assured of a market for our products we will feel free to turn loose and depend on fruit and truck as our money crop.

But before a dependable market can be had there are two or three things essential. First Comanche products must be advertised. Any business man knows that volume of sales depend on advertising. The wholesale grocers, produce men, and the buying public in general must be told that Comanche County produce is of unusual quality. A demand must be created. Our products must be graded as to size and quality and the grades guaranteed. By this method only can the demand be created and maintained. The trade gained by advertising must be held by public confidence in the quality of our products. A reputation for first class products will create and retain the demand.

And finally it is necessary that there be some agent or agency to act for the producers in the wholesale markets. One farmer, or even two or three farmers can not supply any very great demand, and to meet the needs of the wholesale markets we must be able to supply quantity as well as quality. Which in turn means that the producers of the county must act together to furnish produce in sufficient amounts to attract the wholesalers.

The form of organization adopted to meet this need will have to be worked out by the actual producers. It would seem that some sort of marketing association could be formed composed of producers of fruit and truck. It would be the function of such an association to advertise and grade products, and to contact markets. All of this could be done. This could be done better by an association of farmers working together for the common good than by other means. But regardless of the means finally taken to establish a market, it is high time that we as a community set about doing something to profit by our natural resources and advantages.
